Roddam alley, Park Place, was disturbed on Saturday night by a row in the house of John York, who boards eighteen men. About 9.30 cries of police were heard, and messengers were sent to seek police aid. York was drunk, and when he arrived home charged one of his boarders with being unnecessarily attentive to Mrs. York. He followed up the accusation by striking the suspected boarder, and the place at once was a veritable pandemonium. The eighteen boarders, aspandemonium. The eighteen boarders, assisted by the only woman in the house, endeavored to make peace and consequently made matters worse. The landlady, who lives near the house, was struck on the forehead and had to use bandages. When forehead and had to use bandages. When Lieutenant Speliman and Officers Thomas and Saltry arrived, quietness was partially restored as York was monarch of all he surveyed, having cleared the room of his wife and eighteen boarders. He renewed his threats of bodily punishment and was taken to the Providence station house and yesterday morning was fixed $5, the money being paid, and John once more returned home.

Opening Service in the Evangelist Tent on North Main Avenue.

THE TWO SERMONS BY E. W. BLISS

One in the Afternoon at the Initia Service and the Other in the Evening-Services at the Home of the Late Professor Joseph Roney. Funeral of Miss Jane Slocum. Other Notes.

next few weeks were formally opened at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the large tent erected for that purpose on North Main avenue. About 1,500 peo-ple were in attendance. The platform is erected on the northern side, containing seats for the choir of fifty voices selected from the various West Side hurches, On the platform were E. W. Bliss, assistant of Mr. Moody and the leader of the evangelical work; Rev. D. C. Hughes, paster of the Jackson Street Baptist church, and Rev. T. J. Collins, of the Scranton Street Baptist church.

The singing was led by Prof. Wil-liam C. Jones. The meeting was opened with singing after which Mr. the large teongregation sang "Praise Him." A scriptural passage from Matthew xiii, was read by Rev. T. J. Collins. "At the Cross" was then renered and E. W. Bliss announced that Mr. Moody will be here some time during the coming week, and that the meetings in the tent would be conducted every evening.

Mr. Bliss chose for his text the Epistle of Paul to the Romans, i Chronicles, 16th verse, "For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ." His remarks were confined to trying to convince the sinful of the works of Jesus by giving illustrations where Christ had been found. During the course of his impressive remarks he NOT ASHAMED OF GOD.

I hope to revive your memories this afternoon to some things you already know. Paul said in this text that he is not ashamed of God. How many of us can say that? You know there are a great many people in this world that are relig-ious. Others are righteous. There is a great difference between the two. Most men have to get to the end of the rope be-fore they understand. When Paul found what he had to do he went forth into the serting their own righteousness. Paul went about trying to teach people the proper way to live. Saul was climbing in the sand when he found Jesus by trying to reach heaven through his own rightto reach heaven through his own rightcoussess. But if any man will, right here and now, accept God he will be made right cous. One man's excuse was, "When Itry to do good, evil is against me," My friends you must vanquish this evil.

Again the thought comes to us, "Why can't I do right?" It is the influence of company that controls us. Therefore choose your company. Sin ties us up, hands and feet, and we cannot help ourhands and feet, and we cannot help our-selves. It is the binding, scourging influ-

Oh! what a transformation takes place when Jesus Christ has the right of way Again we hear of people cursing the church and Christians. My friends, never curse the church again. Just suppose for a moment that we had no churches, no lible, no spire pointing heavenward, with the cross of Jesus on the pinnacle to re-mind us that He had died for us. What would we do? The influence of evil would take such possession of our souls that we could never expect to enter the kingdom of God. If we believe that Jesus Christ died and will come again then we can also believe that our children will come with

This discourse from Dr. Bliss was followed with the closing prayer from Rev. T. J. Collins, and after the singing of the doxology, the meeting closed SERVICES IN EVENING.

Fully 2 000 people attended the evanng meeting, which opened with song at 7.30 o'clock. A great increase had been made in the choir and it now numbered about 125 voices. Ray. L. C, Floyd, D. D., of the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church, opened the services with a prayer. On the platform were Revs. D. C. Hughes, L. C. Floyd, T. J. Collins, R. G. Jones and E. W. Bliss. The congregation sang "I Will Follow Jesus" and Rev. D. C. Hughes, D. D., read a portion of the Scripture from Joshua i.

Mr. Bliss delivered the sermon in his usual forceful and convincing manner. He dwelt on the duties of a pastor, say-

The life of a pastor is wrought with The life of a pastor is wrought with temptation. People say, "If I was like you, I would be good." They think the devil never visits a preacher. It may be that a pastor's family is not just what it should be, and it may be that it has a large amount of influence among the people in that church. I know a man once that always would be a meanwheaver. that always went to sleep whenever I preached, so I went to him and asked why be did so. "Well," said ne, "I stay awake long enough to see you get a good start and that things are going all right and then I co to always."

some preachers make you go home and you feel real Christian like. Another will make you feel miserable. The latter sort is the most to be sought after, as the real truth of our condition in Christ is not a balm to one's feelings. The fear of man beings a treat a truth of our conditions and the second truth of our conditions in Christ is not a balm to one's feelings. brings a snare. A young man came to me the other day and asked me if he could be a Christian and measure freight with ten per cent off for a railroad company. I told him no. Thus it is that Chris-tian people are moved, and led about by the fear of man. I do not now but what every man here would sacrifice himself on the field of battle for his country, but how about our re-ligion. We know what is right, we know how to do right, but to tell the truth we have not got backbone enough to come out and do it. There were many good men with Christ at the time of His crucifixion. They were all right until they found Him bound and driven to the cross, and then their courage failed them. Peter denied Christ three times and a day or two later stood before upwards of nearly 3,000 pe ple and confessed Christ,

A GUILTY CONSCIENCE. Do you know what had happened in the mean time? Why, he had become imbued with Christ, the Saviour. A very bad thing to have is a guilty conscience. I had one for about sixteen years and I never want such a thing again. Conscience was the last thing I heard when I went to bed at 2 o'clock in the morning and conscience was the first thing I encountered on aris-was the first thing I encountered on arising. Conscience kept it up until the very last. I would not have such a thing again for all the world would give. What a relief the pardon of sins does give to a man! He is not afraid to go anywhere.

I used to be a salesman for a large firm. I would size up a man and if he smoked I smoked; if he played cards I played. I would sell those goods by fair or unfair means. But when I became a Christian I questioned myself as to whether I could continue in this business. I found that it could not be successfully done, so I decided to leave it and confess Christ. The fear of man bringeth a soare. "But he that puts his faith in the Lord will be saved." The m eting will be held this even-ing at 7,30 o'clock.

The respect for the memory and venration felt for the late Professor Joseph Roney were demonstrated by the large number of sympathizing friends who gathered at the family home, 180 Teuth street at 7.30 o'clock last evening. The services were conducted by Dr. S. C. Logan of this city. The love and esteem in which Professor Roney was held was beautifully portrayed by the number of floral designs The initial services of the Moody meetings to be held in this city for the which surrounded the casket. Some time ago his health began to fail and he went to Waverly, thinking that the bracing air would act as a restorer. About a week after he had returned to this city be was stricken with paralysis. Doctors Leet, Reynolds, Gardner and Hermans administered medicines, but to no avail. He graduated from several institutions with honor, and became superintendent of schools here in 1866. Impressive Faneral Services at Family Home.

The many friends of the late Miss ane Slocum, who died at her home, 1114 Division street, on Friday last, assembled at 2 o'clock yesterday to pay a last sad tribute to the memory of the departed one,

The remains were viewed by many as they rested in a handsome black casket. Rev. D K Freeman, of Huntingdos, former paster of the Washburn Street Presbyterian church, with which the young lady was connected, officiated and preached an eloquent sermon. The floral offerings were very beautiful.

During the servicet a quartette, conisting of Mr. and Mrs William H. Freeman, Miss M. Louise Williams and T. F. Wills, rendered several appropriate selections. The imposing funeral cortege moved to Forest Hill cemetery where interment was made. The pall bearers were M. L. Blaic, William Frink, William H. Freeman, world with great enthusiasm.

The re-dedicatory services yesterday afternoon at the Cedar Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, attracted a multitude of people. At 2:30 William Connell, presiding officer, began an address of congratulation, in which he felicitated the members on the progress made by the church stuce its organiza-tion. One reason the congregation can feel proud of is the absolute free dom of the church from debt. Mr. Connell was averse to allowing any evidence of his generosity to be menioned, but the congregation, neverthe less, feels that it should be known that be assisted in lifting the debt. Mr. Connell did not make any pub lic contributions, preferring to assist in an indirect way, but his donations have amounted to one half of the debt of the church. After the address of Mr. Connell an organ voluntary wa played by Miss Florence Richmond. The execution of the number was artistic and effectual. R.v. John Davey delivered prayer and then the choir o children sang. After a Scripture les-son the adult choir sang the authem "I Will Arise."
